Auto Stolen

The police of the entire valley have been notified to be on the lookout for an automobile which was ttolen at an early hour this morning from the garage of John Kittle, who resides along State road near Speers. The garage is located about twenty feet from the house on a slight grade and Mr. Kittle is of the opinion that the car was pushed from the garage and the engine not started until it was some distance from the house.

The car is a seven passenger Buick, license No. 59,634, with a black body. The car is practically new, having been run less than 800 miles. When Mr. Little discovered his loss, he notified the police in surrounding towns and also the watchman on the Monessen-Charleroi bridge. The only clue to the missing car was from this source, the watchman having seen the auto described passing shortly before he was notified. It is probable that the thief was headed for this city and was making his way toward Pittsburgh.

Fell in Well

Anna Kapalko, aged 78 years, met a horrible death some time during the night when she fell into a well and was drowned. Her body was not found until 5 o'clock this morning. The aged lady lived with her daughter, Mrs. John Sinchezk at Van Voorhis, and had been in the habit of going out during the night to get a drink from an old fashioned well. It is supposed that when she leaned over to put the bucket down, she lost her balance and fell in the well. Her daughter became alarmed at her disappearance and in company with her husband made a diligent search, but did not find her body until this morning in the bottom of the well.

Kills Self

Despondent because he had lost his position as manager of the company store at Catsburg, Allen Kyle committed suicide yesterday afternoon by shooting himself through the head with a revolver. The terrible affair occurred at his home over the company store and it happened while his wife was but a few feet away.

Mr. Kyle, who is well known in the valley as agent for the Chevrolet automobile, came to that section about three years ago from Masontown. He was first put in charge of the company store at Black Diamond and was later transferred to Catsburg. The mines were closed down for some time at Catsburg, and the officials of the store were not satisfied with the results obtained by Mr. Kyle and had discharged him.

Mr. Kyle was about 53 years of age, and is survived by his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Fred Wagner of Swissvale. His untimely death is the occasion of much surprise among his friends.

Prosperity Returns

Much has been said about the gradual return of prosperity, but it takes figures in the end to clinch the argument and the annual report of the Pittsburgh Steel company for the fiscal year just ended gives positive information that business is not only "picking up," but actually booming, according to the annual directors' report of the Pittsburgh Steel company issued to its stockholders.

The report shows an increase in the net profits of the company for the fiscal year of $441,609.11. Business to the amount of $11,649,863.97 was done by the Pittsburgh Steel company this year, an increase of $625,-170.39 over last year's business. The net profits for this year were more than double that of the previous year. This year's net profits were $858,160.-02, while last year's net profits amounted to $416,609.11.

STAR THEATRE

Today—Don't forget—"On the Night Stage."

The Cat Came Back

"And the very next day the cat came back." Yes, she did. The advertisement was in last night's Independent. This morning the cat walked into the house looking as guilty as a "hookey" school boy. It isn't often our classified column contains an advertisement for a lost cat, but last night it did: And while we claim that our want column never fails to bring results, we were a little leary when the cat ad came in, for it was so out of the ordinary. A dog ad is a common thing, and many a stray cur has been directed homeward when the boss sought his whereabouts through the paper. But hang it, somehow, we had scruples about that goldarned cat ad, but we screwed our courage to the sticking point, determined, MacBeth like not to fail and we didn't.

"Fluffy" left her bed and board at 401 McKee avenue sometime Sunday night or early Monday morning. She had everything a cat could wish, even had two little kittens to endear her to the hearthstone, but for some reason she became dissatisfied and strolled away. She was missed soon after her departure, and the classified column called into service. The paper was on the streets at the regular hour last evening and early this morning "Fluffy" was back home, penitent and satisfied that a fine home with affection, care and comfort is far superior to all the temptations of the world. The moral is if you lose anything, no matter what, get your ad in the classified column at the earliest possible moment.

Many are Injured

Uniontown, Pa., Sept. 28—Fifteen persons were injured early yesterday morning when they were thrown from their beds by an explosion that demolished a two story double frame house in Main street, Republic, about 15 miles from this place. Traces of dynamite were found under a corner of the building by the police.

The injured are:

Anthony Tassone, wife and four children.

Martin Krepps, wife and four children.

Alexander Staneri, wife and one child.

None of the injured persons will die. The report of the explosion was heard throughout the neighborhood and aroused the residents of the town who hurried to the scene: The injured occupants of the house were taken out of the debris and their injuries attended by a neighboring physician. The force of the explosion rocked several houses in the vicinity from their foundations.

Anthony Tassone, the owner of the house, was unable to give the state police much information on which to work. He declared that he had never received any threatening letters or had any enemies. A posse was formed soon after the explosion and a search soon begun throughout the surrounding country, but no trace of the perpetrators was found. Bloodhounds will be used in an effort to catch the dynamiters.

Game Friday

The High school football team will open the season at home Friday afternoon of this week when they will have as their opponents the fast West Newton High school team. The West Newton boys after holding Charleroi to a 6 to 0 score at the end of the last season became discouraged with their football outlook and have put a fast team on the field this season.

Good Concert

The grand concert given in the Star theatre Sunday afternoon by Mr. F. C. Carter, a student of Storer University at Harpers Ferry, W. Va., was not so well attended as was expected owing to the unfavorable weather, but it was nevertheless just as interesting and as well appreciated by those who braved the elements. Instrumental music furnished the variety and was part of the program that was listened to with marked attention.

The leading attraction however, was the address by Mr. Carter on "The Limitless Possibilities of the Negro Race." Many people were anxious to hear this young man who has won for himself honors at the school of which he is a student. There were no disappointments, as his subject was handled exceptionally well and his oratorical ability far surpassed all expectations. For twenty minutes he held his hearers with rapt attention, as he reached the various climaxes in his lecture and produced ideas for the upbuilding of his race.

At the conclusion of his address, Mr. Carter received many congratulations. A reception at the home of the young man's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Carter of Oneida street, followed the entertainment. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. John Arnold, Mrs. A. Boyer, Miss Francis Furgeson, Mr. Richard Furgeson, W. Henry Taylor, all of Monessen, Miss Rosa and Mary Esther Thomas of Charleroi, Miss Catherine Perry of Charleroi, Miss Lelia J. Simmons and Miss Blanche McPherson of Monongahela, Mr. H. W. Francis of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Carter leaves Thursday evening to re-enter the same college, and Friday evening he will again deliver a lecture at the school.

Assessor's Duty

At the last session of the legislature a new law was passed which it was intended would result in the payment of taxes on dogs or their death. There are many worthless dogs and when it comes to finding their owners that seems to be impossible. Heretofore the job has been divided between the assessor and the tax collector but now the job belongs to the assessor from beginning to end. The law is rather stringent. Assesors will do well to read it carefully.

Killed in Accident

Frederick S. Pearce, 38 years old, superintendent of the Western Pennsylvania office of the Gamewell Fire Alarm company, with headquarters in the Wabash building, Pittsburgh, and Frederick Wilson, 51 years old, chief of the Jamestown, N. Y., fire department, were killed when an automobile in which the two men were riding enroute from Pittsburgh to Jamestown, overturned on the Butler and Slippery Rock Road, four miles east of Butler, Sunday, shortly after 11 o'clock. Peace was killed instantly. Chief Wilson died less than a half hour after the accident.

Death in each case was caused by a fracture of the skull. A witness said Chief Wilson was driving the machine and that when the car overturned, Peace was tossed over the right side of the machine. His head was caught under the heavy car. Chief Wilson was pinned between the steering wheel and the seat.

Mr. Pearce is well known in this city, having spent much time here in the interests of the Gamewell Fire Alarm system. He was here about a month ago and spent several days here demonstrating the system to local firemen and members of council.

Baby Boy Arrives

A telegram has been received here announcing the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Thatcher at their home in Springfield, Ohio. The boy arrived at 7:20 yesterday morning and a telegram was immediately sent to local friends. Mr. and Mrs. Thatcher were former Monessen people, Mr. Thatcher for a number of years holding the position of General Sales Agent for the Page Woven Wire Fence company and resigning that position to become president of the Springfield Spring Co. They have many friends here who will be glad to learn that Mrs. Thatcher and the baby are getting along nicely.

Services Held

Despite the rain which completely altered the plans, the annual memorial services of Siege of Acre Commandery, Knights of Malta, were held Sunday afternoon in the Bentley theatre at Monongahela. It has been arranged to hold the exercises in the Monongahela cemetery but this had to be changed at the last moment and the Bentley theatre was secured. The local commandery was joined for the occasion by Charleroi, Donora, Monessen, Fayette City and other commanderies.

Led by the Donora Steel Works band, the Sir Knights marched to the theatre in the heavy rain and there the services as planned were held. The ceremony of calling the roll of the departed members was most impressive.

Rev. H. O. MacDonald, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Monessen, delivered the memorial address and those who have heard Rev. MacDonald can appreciate his discourse. He spoke interestingly of early Malta history, dealing extensively with the twelfth, fifteenth and eighteenth centuries.

The Presbyterian male quartette rendered several selections and in all the service was inspiring and befitting the organization.

Law Must Determine

John Wanamaker, Jr., of Philadelphia, member of Union League, Racquet club and all that, has been sued by Lucille Storer of New York City for $100,000 breach of promise of marriage damages, and the courts have got to decide a nice question, because the suit is based on Johnnie's not having married her "within a reasonable time" as promised.

Now, what in the name of the little god Cupid, is an unreasonable time between asking the girl and leading up to be shackled in the holy chains of matrimony?

Lucille swears that Johnnie proposed on June 11, 1912. Is three years and a quarter unreasonable? Remember that Johnnie is a Philadelphian and hence, what might look like three hours to you might wear the aspect of three years to him.

We are inclined to think that local conditions have much to do with the reasonableness of the time consumed in engagement to marry. Any girl threatened with marriage to one of those Philadelphia dudes ought to have considerable time to thoroughly study the matter, whereas, if we were a Philadelphian or any other sort of a dude, we'd hang out for plenty of time to consider permanently taking to our bosom any New York City girl whose affections could be damaged $100,000 worth in her own appraisal.

Again, out west, where the supply of eligible young men is distressingly low, a girl runs tremendous risk in hazarding over three days as an engagement period.

However, it doesn't seem likely that the court can reach satisfactory decision on this question through testimony of experts. There are experts who will declare that the parties should hop right from the place of declaration to the hymeneal altar. Also, there are experts who will swear that the engagement period should be unlimited, and the longer the better.

A Splendid Age

This is a splendid world, and this is a splendid age of the world, and instead of denouncing it, you had better get down on your knees and thank God that you live now. And yet in this agreeable world, there are a great many disagreeable people who persist in seeing the wrong side of everything. There is the fault finder. He goes to a concert and growls as he goes, can't afford the time and money, don't believe it will amount to much any way. Finds the bass detestable, the tenor miserable, the soprano a perfect squawk. Goes home disgusted with the whole affair. Sometimes he joins a church, and the church has its hands full. He criticizes everything. Wishes the minister would not preach so long. Thinks he's too argumentative and didactic. Is dissatisfied with the choir and disposed to pick flaws in the financial arrangements. He sighs and groans and grumbles and growls and whines all the way up to heaven. He frets and stews and stings himself and others. He is like a porcupine—all quills; like a crawfish—always going backward, and we don't see for the life of us how he will ever get to heaven unless he goes in that same way: and then most likely he will stop at the gate to pick a quarrel with Saint Peter. When he is fairly inside, we are afraid he won't enjoy it. The singing will be pitched too high, the exercises dull, the services too long. We shouldn't wonder at all if he spent the first century or two squinting at the wall to see if it was exactly plumb.

What is the matter with such people? The trouble is not in their surroundings, but in themselves. If the heart is right, all is right. If the heart is wrong, all is wrong. Every man should carry his own light, God kindled indeed, but still his own, by which to keep his heart warm and his face bright. Pick up the marigolds and daisies in your path, instead of hunting for thistles and thorns. Hang your blinds so as to let in the morning sun. Leave hooting to the owls and croaking to the frogs. Make up your mind that you have come into this world to have a good time, and have it.

The following bit of sweet verse is scissored out of the Kensington Keystone:

ELECTION RETURNS IN POTPURRIE
(By Jack McKalip)

Of all the elections that ever I struck
This last was a gem for excitement.
The candidates ran and just trusted to luck
For they knew that somebody was sure to be stuck
In the poll playing game of "enlightenment."
John Sell, for Controller,
Ran like a steam roller
O'er all the opponents he met,
Although 'twas forecasted
His chance would be blasted
By some of the radical set.
Edward Cremer was also within the the big prize and he's Register now of the Wills
For the voters stuck tight to the man in the fight who always has paid for his bills.
There was also a fight for Recorder of Deeds, sir,
When a Kensington boy in the battle,
Who scattered about intellectual seeds sir,
That stopped opposition's weak tattle.
Harry Miler won out
In this fight for the place
And he earned it "Great Scout,"
Since he's been in the race.
Here's to good old John E. Shields the sheriff that we wanted
Although before election with misfortunes he seemed haunted
We wanted him to whip the ring
Within the county seat
And that's what he has done, by Jing!
In manner clean and neat.
Doc Miler fought for treasurer—that A. D. from Manor.
Doc Miller won that battle in a most decisive manner.
More power to him for his fight and may he still retain
The honesty and acumen that never works in vain.
Berkey Boyd and Reamer D.,
Also won their fight.
Berkey Boyd and Reamer D.,
Must have been all right.
They struck out for commissioner and led the bloomin' race
So let us lift our hats to them who set the winning pace
They say Doc Harkins (first name James)—fought like a foreigner
With mighty centimeter guns and won as coroner.
And Burgess Ross of Ligonier,
A strong good will purveyor,
Came running past from in the rear
And won the job, surveyor.
Let's hail the office winners, let the town strike up the band
For few there'll be who'll live to see
A better bunch at hand.
Let's hail the office winners who have fought the honest fight
And help them flay election day
The crooks who come in sight.

D. D. D. In Hospitals; Standard Skin Cure

How many hospital patients, suffering the frightful itch, the raw scorching pain of skin disease, have been soothed to sleep by a soothing fluid washed in by the nurse's hands?

That fluid is the famous D. D. D. prescription for eczema.

THE SUPERVISING NURSE of one of our prominent Catholic institutions (name of nurse and institute on application), writes regarding a patient: "The disease had eaten her eyebrows away. Her nose and lips had become disfigured. Since the use of D. D. D. her eyebrows are growing, her nose and face have assumed their natural expression."

How many eczema sufferers are paying their doctors for regular treatment and are being treated with this same soothing, healing fluid?

DR. GEO. T. RICHARDSON frankly writes "D. D. D. is superior to anything I have ever found. Soft and soothing, yet a powerful agent."

To do the work, D. D. D. Prescription must be applied according to directions given in the pamphlet around every bottle. Follow these directions—and see!

And it certainly takes away the itch at once—the moment the liquid is applied. The skin is soothed—calmed—so thoroughly refreshed—delightfully cooled.

All druggists of standing have the famous specific as well as the efficient D. D. D. Skin Soap.

But we are so confident of the merits of this prescription that we will refund the purchase price of the first full size bottle if it fails to reach your case. You alone are to judge.

An Incident of the Boxer Movement In China

By JOHN Y. LARNED

Some years ago Hugh Worthington, a young man of fortune, desiring to enter the field of diplomacy, secured an appointment in the service of the United States government at Peking. Worthington was more interested in seeing the country than in his official duties, which were nominal, and he traveled over such parts of China as were open to foreigners. One day he fell in with a mandarin who had been a good deal in England and spoke the language. The mandarin traveled in style, being carried in a chair, common in Europe until near the beginning of the nineteenth century, by two men and attended by several other servants.

Worthington, who traveled on horseback, on joining the mandarin rode beside the chair, chatting with him. The American knew enough of China to understand that it was infested with robbers and was armed to the teeth. The mandarin was an elderly person, unused to arms, but his servants were prepared to defend him. They were armed with pikes, short swords and other weapons, which Worthington considered next to useless in a fight with an enemy properly accoutered.

Suddenly while passing through a narrow cut in the road the party was attacked by a dozen men bent on robbery. They were not much better armed than the mandarin's servants, but they outnumbered the latter, who immediately took to flight, leaving their master in the hands of the enemy.

Worthington drew a revolver from under his coat at each hip and began a fusillade that put the robbers to flight. Upon this the servants returned and humbly begged the master's forgiveness for having deserted him. He was profuse in his thanks to the American, who had not only saved a considerable amount of money for the Chinaman, but his life as well. He begged Worthington to name some favor that he could do him, but the latter said that he wanted for nothing in the world. Then the mandarin took up a bamboo umbrella and opened it. Calling for a writing stick, he wrote on it something as unintelligible to his preserver as the receipt of a Chinese laundryman in America. Handing it to Worthington, he said in a voice so low as not to be heard by his servants:

"A time is coming when there will be a movement on the part of our ignorant and superstitious people to rid China of all foreigners. Keep this umbrella and if attacked open it in the face of your would be murderer."

Worthington paid no attention to the man's warning. Every one knew that foreigners were hated by the Chinese, and there had always been talk about the latter being massacred. The American was young, and the young take little thought of danger. But he was too polite not to assure the mandarin that he would keep his gift as a remembrance of him and the episode.

An American named Preston lived in Peking, who operated a banking house which was a branch of one in New York. Worthington spent a good deal of time at his house, attracted by the banker's daughter, Emma Preston. When the Boxer trouble broke out a month after the foregoing episode Worthington was at Preston's house. It was without the regions of the embassies and entirely unprotected. Worthington on the first sign of danger returned to the embassy for leave to absent himself for the protection of the family in which he was interested. Having attained it, he was about to start back when he noticed the umbrella given him by the mandarin. The day was very hot and it occurred to him to take it for protection against the sun's rays. As to the words spoken concerning it if attacked by an enemy, he had forgotten them, but he did not forget to take with him a couple of revolvers and a supply of cartridges.

As Worthington approached the Preston home he noticed knots of Chinamen talking together excitedly. Some of them scowled at him, but since they had as much dread as hatred of a "foreign devil," they did not attack him. He reached the Preston home safely, but found the family in great trepidation, expecting that at any time a mob would attack and murder them.

The anticipated trouble occurred the next day. The banker's residence was well known, and a crowd of Chinamen armed with all sorts of implements from a scythe to a razor came down for murder. Worthington knew that, though armed, he could not withstand so large a force; nevertheless he stationed himself at a window over the front door, ready to use up his cartridges.

The howling mass came, stopped before the house and were about to make an onslaught upon it when suddenly all their eyes were cast to a window directly beneath the one Worthington occupied. Then every weapon was lowered, every knife was sheathed and the Chinamen moved on.

Worthington was at a loss to account for this sudden change, but it was soon explained to him. One of the family had caught up his umbrella, as a drowning person will catch at a straw, opened it and held it at a window on the ground floor as a protection against stones that were being thrown in. On it was a message signed by a man to whom the Boxers looked as a commander:

Respect this man and his family and his property.

HIS SENTIMENTS

DO STOUT LADIES WANT THE VOTE?

Ask Mrs. Grusel, Who Carried 200 Pounds of Suffrage Sentiment Into Catawissa

Mrs. Sarah Grusel is 65 years old and weighs 200 pounds. She has raised a family of five—four boys and one girl. They live in a clean and well-kept little home on Catawissa Mountain, two miles from town.

When the Woman's Liberty Bell visited Catawissa recently, the Weather Man was busy demonstrating that September can be made just as warm and uncomfortable as July. He had the thermometer registering 97 degrees in the shade. But that fact didn't bother Mrs. Grusel any more than her 200 pounds, her sixty-five years nor the two mile walk to town. She had made up her mind that she was going to see the bell and join in the demonstration that had been prepared for it.

"You see," she explained to Mrs. Stephen J. Houk, chairman of the Columbia County Suffrage Association, "I want the vote and I want my daughter to have it, so I just naturally had to come along and let you people know about it. I thought that if you knew a big fat woman was willing to walk two miles in the hot sun to show her colors, you younger women who aren't carrying weight or age and can talk suffrage might feel like doing a little extra work on my account. What do you think about it?"

"I think you are fine," said Mrs. Houk, "and there isn't a woman here who won't be glad to do all the extra work she can to get the ballot for you and your daughter on election day."

"Well," said the stout lady, casting an approving eye over the goodly crowd of both men and women gathered about the bell, "if that's the case, we'll win sure. But my sakes, hasn't it been a long time coming!"

THE PATRIOTIC VIEW

If you are a man who loves your country, don't you know there can be no other act so patriotic as to dedicate to its services the sex that has been the conscience-keeper of the world for ages?

Vote "YES" on the suffrage amendment.

MOTORMEN AND CONDUCTORS ENDORSE WOMAN SUFFRAGE

At the fourteenth biennial convention of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electrical Railway Employees of America, held in Rochester, N. Y., September 18, equal suffrage was dealt with in a manner that left no doubt as to the Association's stand on the question. The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"That we go on record as heartily endorsing the woman's suffrage bills now before the voters of New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and such other States that may have voted to refer the matter to the people for their decision, and that we earnestly request our members in these States to do all in their power to pass these progressive measures to end sex discrimination."

The Amalgamated Association is particularly strong in Pennsylvania. It has thousands of members in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and all the important cities of the State and among the men on the various interurban lines.

SUFFRAGE BOOMED BY PENNYPACKER

Former Governor Issues Statement For Cause From Hospital Bed

HE WILL VOTE FOR IT

Right Arm Is Broken But He Signs Statement Holding Pen In Left Hand

From his bed in the Pennsylvania Hospital, in Philadelphia, where he is lying with a broken right arm, former Governor and present Public Service Commissioner Samuel W. Pennypacker has given out a statement declaring that he will vote for woman suffrage and that he believes that it is only just that women should have the vote.

SAMUEL W. PENNYPACKER.

The broken right arm prevented him from writing the statement himself so he dictated it to his nurse. When it was finished he insisted that he be given a pen so he could sign it. He said that he would not allow a little thing like a broken arm to prevent him from making his declaration for suffrage with all the formality his personal signature could give it. He took the pen in his left hand and wrote his name in full at the bottom of the statement.

The statement is as follows:

It is my expectation to vote in favor of Woman Suffrage when that subject comes before the people for their determination.

I propose so to vote, not because of the thought that giving the right of suffrage to women will necessarily improve political conditions or public service, but because it seems to me to be only just to them that they should have this means of protecting themselves and such property as they may possess

(Signed)

SAMUEL W. PENNYPACKER.

This declaration for suffrage is the second one by an ex-governor of the State. William A. Stone came out for the cause two weeks ago, just after Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh, the present Chief Executive, had given it his endorsement.

Williamsport Grit states editorially: "The opponents of the suffrage movement are futilely trying to push back a tide which will finally engulf them as it has all other opponents of suffrage extension since free government became a force in the world. Trying to stop it by argument is much like attempting to quell a forest fire with a medicine dropper."

TUESDAY—"Hypocrites" presented by Bosworth, one of the greatest actors of the world, the establisher of Paramount pictures and now with the Universal Film company. Bosworth, Lois Weber, wife of Phillips Smalley, and Smalley himself, have astonished the entire world with their productions. "Hypocrites" was one of the first and best ones. Then they were with the Paramount. Now all three are with the Universal. They have produced "Scandal," a Broadway Universal feature. Also "Jewel," which wil be shown at the Olympic theatre Thursday, Sept. 30. The most wonderful picture that ever appeared on any screen. Bosworth's next picture which will be shown at the Olympic will be Thursday, Oct. 17, entitled "Little Brother of the Rich," This is another wonderful picture, equal to "Hypocrites" and "Jewel." We are pleased to say that from now on the Universal Broadway features are without exception above any criticisms. They are far superior to the first Broadway Universal features. "Hypocrites" and "Jewel" are great sermons. Clergymen of our town and surrounding towns will be benefitted from these great moral uplifting productions. School teachers must advise their pupils to take advantage of these great lessons of life. Let us hope so.

WEEKS' SPECIAL EXTRAORDINARY FEATURES

WEDNESDAY—"The Searchlight Gun," with Barrymore, White, Hale and the Mysterious Mr. X. One of "The Romance of Elaine" chapters Useless to say anything about this picture, at least to thousands of people who know more about it than we do. It is fine, with no fault in it.

THURSDAY—The day of "Jewell" in five charming parts, featuring the sweetest little actress of America, Ella Hall and Robert Julian, produced by Lois Weber and Phillips Smalley from the famous novel "Jewell" by Clara Louise Burman. No ordinary film review can possibly convey the wonderful power of this idyllic play. The most hardened film critic unblushingly lets go to the extent that his frequent smiles are seen through tears.

FRIDAY—B A. Rolfe photo play Co.'s production for the Metro Film Co., of "Fighting Bob," with Orrin Johnson on the leading role, in five acts of thrilling dramatic action. In both love and war, Bob displays great energy, perseverance and ability, and he is acclaimed president of the Republic and wins the girl for his wife.

SATURDAY—Chapter 19 of "The Diamond From the Sky" with $10,000 offered for the best suggestion. It is known and famed the world over. Many people do not sleep on Friday night for fear they might over sleep and miss our Saturday show. The manager of the Olympic is one of them.

The Sanitary Removable Front of the NEW

Roll Door Hoosier

Like most wonderful inventions this new Kitchen Cabinet is so simple that you will wonder why no one discovered it before.

Yet, makers have experimented for ten years to produce it. Hoosier triumphs again with the only kitchen cabinet that has roll doors which are sanitary and removable.

No Partitions

Note the entire absence of cubby holes or dirt breeding pockets. As on all Hoosier Cabinets the space of the cupboards is free of partitions. The doors slide in an ingeniously contrived channel which is open and easy to clean. A simple motion removes the doors and a whisk broom or cloth dusts out the channel completely. You will recognize all the other features that make the Hoosier Cabinet famous.

This Week for $1 Cash

WOMEN—If you are tired out at night, if your back aches: if you never get through; if you want system in your kitchen, get a Hoosier on trial tomorrow and see the difference. The Hoosier will amaze you with its saving of time, labor and steps in a single day.

May Contest Election

As a result of the examination of the ballot box from Hempfield No. 5, made Saturday afternoon in court, the election of last Tuesday in that precinct may be contested The ballot box was opened before the return board. It was brought in by order of the court.

A recount of the ballots is said to have increased the vote of Ben Steele five votes. Erasure marks are claimed by some to have been found on 64 ballots found in the ballot box. The tally sheets were also defaced, it is said, to such an extent that should certain corrections be made, the vote for Ben Steel would be increased a total of 84 votes. This would officially nominate him as a candidate for county commissioner on the Republican ticket for the general election on November 2.

Others claim that on 58 ballots, erasure marks were visible following the name of W. D. Reamer, while on the tally sheet but 10 votes were credited.

Following the names of several other candidates it appeared, some say, that either a blunder was made by the election board or that a change was made on the ballots.

Should a contest be made and the 84 votes claimed originally marked for Steele be accredited to him, he would be officially nominated by 13 votes, his friends say.

Postponed Action

Butler, Pa., Sept. 28—Following the regular business session at the adjourned fall meeting which re-convened in the Second Presbyterian church here yesterday, the cases of the Rev. J. M. Moore, former pastor of the Evans City, Callery and Plain churches, and the Rev. J. Clarence Leech, former pastor of Zelienople church, now working within the bounds of Pittsburgh Presbytery, against whom charges have been preferred, were taken up behind closed doors. When the meeting adjourned the Rev. W. B. McNees, stated clerk of Presbytery, said a special committee had been appointed to investigate the charges and that the committee would take up final action here October 11.

The trouble between two factions of the Harrisville congregation was settled when the Presbytery accepted the resignation of the Rev. S. B. Young, the pastor. Mr. Young said he expected to leave in a few weeks to take up another charge. The Rev. Thompson informed the Presbytery that he had accepted a call to Licking and Leatherwood churches, Clarion county. The Presbytery dismissed him to the Clarion Presbytery.
